PROTOPLASM.

Its Offices in Building he Beings of the World--An Address Delivered Before the Ohio County Teacher's Institute.

BY E. S. PENDLETON, M. D.

In order to give protoplasm its distinguishing title, it first became necessary to give life a satisfactory definition. This has never been done so as to meet with the entire approval of the scientific world. There have been many attempts by our most progressive scientists to define life in such a manner as to give a clear and concise conception of its intricate phenomena.

Life is an entity in which we find hidden organization acting in accordance with hidden laws which defy the skill of our greatest minds, yet, when discerned are as simple as the addition of one and one. Huxley's definition seems to have a greater following than others, therefore we will accept it. He says: "Life is mere organization in action." Protoplasm being the lowest form of any substance within the limit of our knowledge capable of performing the various phenomena of life, we take it as a basis and call it the physical basis of life. Protoplasm in the living state is a colorless, structureless material which exhibits slow movements under the microscope. Its actual chemical composition is not known, because in the process of analyzes, the vital principle, which is its most marked characteristic, is destroyed.

It possesses the vital properties or function of irritability, automatism, reception and assimilation of food, respiration and reproduction. So we have represented in this substance all the functions which in the higher animals are confined to special tissues such as muscles, nerves, glands, etc. The peculiarities of this substance can be better understood by the study of the Protozoa, which represents it in its lowest form. The entire body of a protozoan is solely developed of protoplasm. They are not only the simplest of organisms, but the simplest beings capable of existing, and although their bodies are but small formless lumps of protoplasm without any combination of parts, yet, they perform all the functions which constitute in the most highly organized animals and plants, what is comprehended in the idea of life.

Some of these little bodies live in fresh water and others in salt water. They are, as a rule, invisible to the naked eye but some attain the size of a head of a pin. When completely at rest they assume the shape of a sphere, but when in motion there are found to extend from their bodies, pseudopodia, or little feet, which enable them to climb, creep, swim or adhere to foreign bodies. Each little foot has the property of contraction and sensation that permit them to grasp particles of food as they come in contact with them—for instance, when a protozoa is swimming leisurely along and comes in contact with a particle of food, he instantly puts forth numbers of little feet with which he presses the food to his interior.

These animalcule are capable of taking in oxygen and giving off carbon dioxide, hence they perform the function of respiration yet they have no respiratory organs.

They take food into their bodies and appropriate it to their structure, hence they eat and digest food but have no digestive organs. By attaching their pseudopodia to stationary objects they can move from place to place, so they have the power of locomotion but are devoid of a muscular system. If they come in contact, with any irritative substance such as acids, etc., their bodies immediately contract hence they possess the power of sensibility without a nervous system. These little bodies also have the power of multiplying themselves.

Now that I have presented to you the peculiarities of protoplasm in its primal state, it remains to show its relation to higher organization. The higher classes of animals are made up of special organs. These organs are composed of tissue, and tissue is nothing more than an aggregate of cells which are differentiated for the purpose of tissue.

We have in man the connective tissue cell, the bone cell, the muscle cell, the blood cell and the nerve cell. The connective cell performs the function of supplying its tissue with food. The bone cell supplies the bone tissue with food, but the muscle cell is higher in order and possesses the property of contraction, causing the muscle to contract and relax. The gland cell, still higher in order, has the power to discriminate between the various substances in the blood; hence, the elimination of bile from the liver, the taking up of oxygen and throwing off of carbon dioxide by the lung, etc. Still higher we find the nerve cell, predominating over the whole organism, dictating every action of the lower cells and taking all the responsibility upon itself. Wherever nutrition, propagation, motion, and sensation exist, there is to be found as their natural basis, protoplasm. The growth of the plant, the flight of the bird or the train of human thought have for their primary springs of action the properties of protoplasmal force.

CHAPTER III.

Twelve years passed, during which, if my child friend did not pass entirely out of my mind, she at least became a very indistinct image on my memory. I had become a quiet, mature citizen of the United States, with no fancy whatever for the sight of blood, and without the slightest predilection for making wars. The one I had made so long before I was out disposed to repeat as strictly binding, and should any reason occur for its breaking I did not look upon it as a present obstacle.

I was giving one summer afternoon to be a class of a local fashion of the New England town, chatting with a friend [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] dressed in the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 16.

IN a drunken fight at Knottsville, Sunday night, Dave Gaddes split open the heart of Arthur Bell with a harlow knife.

WE acknowledge an invitation to attend the Caldwell County Fair, which meets at Princeton, October 7th-10th. The Company has fine new grounds, and a fine show is promised.

THE HERALD has an invitation to attend the Muhlenberg County Fair, which meets at Greenville, October 14-17. We will be there, and expect to see one of the finest fairs in the country.

As is its custom to publish everything of interest to the school people of the county, the HERALD gives in another column the programme of the Unbored Teachers' Institute, to be held here the 23d inst.

THE HERALD wants all the news from the different localities in the county and would be obliged if correspondents would tell the people what is happening. Send in your communications on Monday. The HERALD does not contain a weekly statement of the happenings in your community, see to it that the next issue has a full report.

OHIO COUNTY has 337,348 acres of land, the assessed value of which is $1,757,623, being an average of only $5.21 per acre. Daviess has 272,697 acres, valued at $14.12 per acre, while Grayson has 286,800 acres valued at $3.46 per acre. The cheapest land in the State is Martin county, whose 719,929 acres are assessed at only $1.64 per acre.

THE Constitutional Convention Monday showed some deference to public opinion by the adoption of an amendment to section 63, which was so heavily criticised before the election. This permits local legislation relative to local option, bridges, public roads, public buildings, stock laws, common schools and paupers. The Convention will likely be in session till October 1st.

THE newsy and intelligent letter from Frankfort, which appeared in the HERALD last week, was greatly enjoyed by its readers, many of whom did not fail to recognize the hand of the gifted young gentleman who was for a long time editor of the HERALD. It was only the forerunner of many such, and the HERALD can promise its readers an occasional contribution from the same pen that will not fail to interest and instruct its readers.

We take pleasure in announcing to the public the approach of the Ohio County Fair. The announcement comes late, but through the 5,000 readers of the HERALD we hope it will be generally circulated throughout the county that there is to be a Fair here this fall, as many inquiries have come to us as to whether there was to be any or not. The meeting convenes September 30 and lasts four days, and it promises to be a very good Fair.

THE Republican remains as silent as an oyster relative to its change of heart upon the question of the "barbarous tariff system." There can be no further doubt that the Republican is really in sympathy with the suffering farmers of the country, whom it has seen taxed poor by this system, and it will no doubt soon have the courage to speak out its convictions fully and join the multitude of honest men who are flocking to the ranks of those who fight for a taxation adjusted to meet the needs of an economical government.

GOV. BROWN'S appointment of Dr. H. K. Pusey as Superintendent of the Central Asylum at Anchorage, is an excellent one. Dr. Pusey is a splendid physician; he is a man of untiring energy, and his name is a synonym for honor. His soul is large, his mind is broad, while his heart is tender and sympathetic, ever responsive to the weakest wail of suffering humanity. His host of confidently unbacked friends are rejoiced that he is again in a position so well adapted to his fine attainments and generous love of humanity. Dr. Pusey was Superintendent during Gov. Knott's administration, and when Gov. Buckner was elected, he resigned. There was an attempt made to criticise his conduct while in control, but Dr. Pusey's response, together with the facts and figures pertaining to his administration, was unanswerable and remained unanswered.

UNANSWERABLE.

AN unanswerable argument against the oppressive tariff system under which our farmers have been straggling the last twenty years, is that despite the plenteous harvests which have blessed the fields of the richest agricultural country in the world, the farmers of this section have grown poorer while the Eastern manufacturer has continued to live like a prince.

Our citizens pay the smallest State tax paid to any State government in the Union—thanks to Democratic economy—and yet, tell as our farmers do, with unremitting labor from year to year, they are forced to see their farms decrease in value and the struggle for bre d become yearly more and more severe.

Meantime, the Eastern capitalist for whom you and I are taxed, has no complaint to make. He pays his heavy contribution to Republican campaign funds and in return he is carefully looked after by the party in power. The wail of Protection that prevents the farmer from buying his goods where he can buy cheapest, also cuts off the market that ought to be open to the sale of his farm products and the cry of "over production" goes up, when if we were not fined so heavily for trading with other countries, they would consume our surplus and give us cheap markets in which to buy our necessities. The time when our farmers will cease to vote the Republican ticket in support of this burdensome tariff theory, is already here.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

This is a subject upon which the HERALD has heretofore had some thing to say, but it has tried hard to maintain its respect for the aggregation that are and have been for a year now, with a vacation of four months intervening, assembled at Frankfort; but when they are found in the attitude which the dispatch to the Post, an ardent friend of the Convention, places them, the HERALD has no words to convey its disgust. Referring to the proposition to so change the Constitution voted on as to take from the Governor the power to appoint the Railroad Commissioners, the Post dispatch says:

"Behind the principle upon which the proposition for a change is placed, is an undercurrent of personal feeling. It is not directed toward the Governor, but to two of his elected prospective appointees to the position in question. Mr. Trey Woodson, of Owensboro, has especially incurred the displeasure of the Convention, and some of the delegates are in high glee over the opportunity afforded in this matter to get back at him for the many flings he made at the Convention in his paper, the Messenger, and for his very active opposition to the new Constitution. It is thought by them that he has his heart set upon the position of Commissioner, and the idea of disappointing his ambition gives them great satisfaction."

That a set of men chosen to form the organic law for a great State like Kentucky should descend to the gratification of such a petty spleen, is almost past belief. If this is the spirit in which the Convention has prescribed, a motion to adjourn sine die would meet with a hearty approval from the people of the State.

SOBER SECOND THOUGHT.

It will be remembered that the Louisville Post was one of the most ardent of all the advocates of the new Constitution. It was proclaimed by it as the highest achievement of human wisdom, and with only a few modifications in verbiage, without any material change, it was to be the grandest of modern instruments. In a double-leaded editorial, referring to the clause on Revenue and Taxation in the Constitution and to the fact that some of the delegates wanted even yet to make some change, the Post says of the clause as it now is and as the Convention says it must remain:

It is safe to say that the clause in question, if not avoided by false swearing or some device quite as dishonorable, will drive capital from the State and deter capital from coming into it. It will certainly cripple if it does not entirely destroy some of our most valuable banking institutions. It will be a source of perpetual embarrassment to a large class of business men, to a large number of widows and orphans and indirectly to the people of the entire State.

HONOR TO WHOM IT IS DUE.

THE HERALD has frequent occasion to veer to the Constitutional Convention, and is sorry that these references cannot always be the most complimentary. Nothing but its duty to its readers and the obligation to tell the truth about all matters would drive it to thus criticise the acts of the assembly of wise men. For these criticisms, we only await the vindication which time will bring. In what we have to say, we do not want to be understood as directing criticism toward the delegate who represents Ohio county. For it may be said to his credit that his course there has been marked by a wisdom beyond his years. If the Convention had followed the leadership of his illustrious father, they would have been applauded by every good man in the State, and the position of Mr. McHenry, Jr., has been along the line of policy outlined by Col. McHenry while that body was honored by his presence. But he is only one man in an aggregation of one hundred, many of whom are "re-cord" makers of the worst kind. While we hope for the best results from the labors of these men, we look with apprehension to the result of their labors.

PLENTY OF THEM.

"The HERALD thinks Hon. Henry Houston, the ex-Confederate soldier, is a pet of the Republicans party. Can you point to an ex-Federal soldier who is a "pet" of the Democratic party?

Oh, yes; they are numerous. Our own Sam E. Hill or Thomas J. Smith for instance, who have always given us to understand that they were the only pets of Democratic party, to say nothing of Matt Adam and many others. The war is over on the Democratic side of the house.

ONE OF THE SEVEN-HEADED.

An amusing incident occurred at one of Hartford's leading churches recently. A young divine who was visiting the city had been invited by the old pastor to fill his pulpit, and the pews were well filled with worshippers from and otherwise.

The young minister had reached his fourthly, when a low, humming sound came to his ears from the body of the house. It sounded like a number of voices commingled as in animated discourse in an undertone. The minister paused a moment but the noise continued, when he threw himself well onto his clerical dignity and summoning a solemn tone, he said: "Well, I suppose we should one talk at a time, and as I seem to be in a minority, I shall wait until the others have finished."

In spite of this withering rebuke, the offender did not wither, but just at that moment the hum burst into a deep gutteral sound which was as loud and distinct as to be unmistakable, and as the bovine offender passed on by the church and his voice became low in the distance, the dominie said, "Let us return to our text," and the lights in the chandeliers were moved with the smile that rippled over the audience.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

HE MAY GET THERE.

[Breckinridge News.]

A number of prominent Kentuckians expressed themselves on the day of Gov. Brown's inauguration, that Col. P. Wat Hardin would get there four years hence.

GOT ALONG WITHOUT THEM.

[Frankfort Capital.]

Major Wood, Republican candidate for Governor, and a gentleman who signed under the Bureau affidavit, also voted for his Democratic opponent, Mr. Brown, but came to see him inaugurated. "96" Harris, the Prohibition candidate, and Erwin, the Third Party candidate, were not present, and neither was especially missed.

BETTER TAKE THEIR COUNTY PAPER FIRST.

[Scottsville Local]

Farmer Andrew P. Peabody, of Missouri, proposes that out of their large crops each fortunate farmer shall contribute ten bushels of wheat, and have it shipped to the hungry people of Europe. That would be a manifestation of substantial Christian charity that would astonish the world a great lesson. A present of 15,000,000 bushels of wheat, and Europe would resound with the innovation: God bless America! Is such a grand scheme possible? What say the farmers? Will they put to shame the plutocrats who hoard the world's millions?

LICKS COMIN' AND GOIN'.

[Times.]

Col. O'Bralley testified to the loyalty of Col. Hanlon, who "fit into the war" with the best of them, and would now "break into the Paducah post-office, being as how he is barred from the Lieutenant Governorship and a position. Col. Hanlon's experience in licking Yankees admirably fits him for licking stamps, while his Democratic editorials in the Paducah News so ably controverted in the columns of the stump, furnish strong presumption of his capacity to lick 'em on to it sides, if necessary. He is pre-eminently the man for the place.

NOTWITHSTANDING WHOLESALE EXTRAVAGANCE.

[Glasgow Times.]

The impression that the Republicans have made way with the natural treasury at Washington is altogether erroneous. The hole of it is still there.

A NEEDED CHANGE.

[Covington Commonwealth.]

It was stated that embezzler Tillman, of Louisville, was on his way home from Canada, but he seems to have suddenly disappeared again. His case has brought to the front a serious defect in the laws of Kentucky. According to prominent legal authority his offense in robbing his employers was only a breach of trust, for which there is no penalty. He might as well have stood at home, and saved the expense and trouble of a trip to our financial bugbear on N'orth. In the interest of both individual and public honesty the laws of Kentucky should be so changed as to no longer give immunity to such crimes as that of Tillman.

ALL THE "DENTHRIES" GOT THERE.

[Hopkinsville Kentuckian.]

The Bowling Green Times objects to Adjutant General Jack Gross' grammar. The Times seems to forget that the undertongue is about the only thing a Kentucky soldier can make war upon is these pipsqueak days of peace. Furthermore the Times is mistaken about Gen. Gross' merits. He may not get himself up in the style of a dude and "pressure" a thing to be true, but he is a Democrat from away back, with plenty of horse sense, and "gets there all the same."

WEEP WITH THOSE WHO WEEP.

[Capital.]

We tender to the members of the Con. Con. assurances of our most distinguished consideration and sincere sympathy in this hour of their sinful bereavement. We learn that their fears have been realized by a combination of railroad conductors, and that they have to pay their fare as do ordinary mortals. We mourn with our friends.

HE'S "DAYTO."

[Arizona Kicker.]

We understand that Big Jim Henderson is trying to work up a big feeling among the boys against our nomination as Mayor because we insist on pronouncing the word dayo as "dayjo." We don't do it to put on airs over the boys, but because it comes perfectly natural to us. We lived the first twenty years of our life in Boston, and it comes natural to us to give the French accent to our words, as "Heuri," for Henry, "Chelly," for Charley, etc., etc. We don't believe the boys will go back on us on that account. On the contrary we think they will rather feel proud of us. It's "dayjo," though, whether they stick or slide, and we propose to also wear our shirts with the buttons behind, even if we never get a vote in a canvass.

PASTE THIS IN YOUR HAT.

[Crittenden Press.]

The ex-Confederate soldier, Governor Buckner, made an ex-Federal soldier, Mat Adams, Secretary of State, appointed him for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, and now that his term as Secretary of State has expired, he steps into the Commissionership of Railroads by appointment of the retiring Governor. Those who are ever ready to cry out that ex-Federal soldiers are boycotted by Kentucky Democrats should paste this in their hats.

A JOLLY SET.

[Kentucky Journal.]

The financial atmosphere of Louisville has cleared some more. Jolly R. Brown, an employee of the Bank of Commerce, has left the Falls City to return no more. But a Jolly R. lot of folks can't be found than in Louisville.

A BLUEGRASS OPINION.

[Glasgow Times.]

Gov. Brown's cabinet does not appear to be satisfactory to anybody but Gov. Brown.

Secretary of State John W. Headley is an excellent tobacco-man, and a bolting Democrat who did all he could to defeat Asher Carruth, the Democratic nominee in the Fifth Congressional district.

Adjutant-General Jack Gross is a good man, and a good Democrat, but he served an interregnum. His duties of his office before he knows them.

Assistant Secretary of the State S. A. Norman is—who is he?

If Governor Brown desired to emphasize the fact that Governor Brown will alone be Governor of Kentucky, he has succeeded. If he intended to surround himself with representative Kentuckians, and representative men, he has signally failed.

BADLY NEEDED HERE.

[Grayson Gazette.]

Elizabethtown has an ordinance requiring all business men to keep the streets in front of their houses clean and free from rubbish. A similar ordinance is badly needed in this town. It would not only improve the appearance of the streets, but would be to the interest of the business men to have their pavements and the street in front present a neat and clean appearance.

ONE OF THE WONDERS.

[Kentucky Telephone.]

One of the wonders of this century of wonders will be the assertion made by the great Third Party leaders as to how it will be possible for the Federal Government to borrow money at 4 per cent. and lend it to farmers on real estate security for 1 per cent.

KENTUCKY'S GROWTH.

[Exchange.]

A census shows a very gratifying growth of values in Kentucky in the past decade. The property valuation in the State assessed for taxation is put at $512,813,500, being the very handsome gain of $102,052,506, in the past decade. The percentage of gain is more than the average throughout the United States and the average per capita is greater than in almost any other Southern State, being $275, per capita against $212 in 1880.

ITS READERS EXTRACT IT.

[Oldham Index.]

Ben Ringo, the able editor of the Hartford HERALD, with his powerful arguments and seductive editorials, has won the Hartford Republican over from the High Tariff idea. The Republican has gone so far as to call the Tariff System the "barbarous protective system." We may look for an editorial headed "Iniquitous Force Bill" or "Reed's Reckless Course."

POSSIBILITIES OF THE JERSEY.

[Industrial American.]

In ten years any man who will exercise good judgment in breeding, wise liberality in feeding and business sense in marketing the produce of a herd of Jersey cows, may enrich a good sized farm and put money in his pockets.

OUGHT TO FIGHT THE COMMON ENEMY.

[Henderson Gleaner.]

President Polk of the Alliance says they are getting no set-backs, and continues as follows:

"If any of the old parties will come out and take a stand squarely on the Alliance platform," he says, "that party will get the support of the Alliance, and every member of the Alliance will fight for it until success is attained, whether or do not accept their platform without reservation."

If the Gleaner is not mistaken there is no material difference in the platform of the Democratic party and that of the Alliance, except the sub-treasury concerning the expediency of which even the Alliance are in doubt. We see no reason why both parties should not join ranks and together fight their common enemy, the Republican party, the party of centralization and the champion of monopolies. The Democratic party is pledged to an enlarged currency, and a sweeping reduction of the tariff—two pieces of legislation which are of vital importance to the farmer.

DON'T FORGET THESE THINGS.

[Paoli News.]

Occasionally some fellow drops in and stops his paper.

Don't think the editor loses any sleep because he does this.

Don't forget to send the amount due when you order the paper discontinued.

Don't forget that it is just as great a sin to defraud a newspaper out of its just dues as it is to cheat the butcher or the baker.

Don't think that because your are good for the amount we ought not to be in a hurry to get it; but remember that as long as it is in your pocket it does us no good.

Don't forget, dear reader, that those who defraud a paper out of what is due will have to settle for all in the great world, in a place where no paper can be published on account of the calorific state of the atmosphere.

WOULD BE HONORED.

[Critic.]

The next Railroad Commission would be honored by the presence of as brave and honest a gentleman as Trey Woodson. His enemies in the Constitutional Convention ought to be ashamed to wage such a petty war against him. Mr. Woodson is not a candidate for the place, and as his first duty is to his newspaper, he may not accept the appointment if it is offered him.

INDICATES A GREAT GOVERNMENT.

[Larue County Herald.]

As an illustration of the adage, "The few are governed by the many," 6,000,000 people living in New York City and of that vast number only 14,830 own property, the others being renters.

[illegible]
[Owensboro Messenger]

Most of the alterations to the Constitution suggested by the revisory committee are good ones and if adopted will make the instrument far less objectionable. The changes now proposed chiefly embrace the objections urged during the recent canvass by the opponents of the new constitution, and a discussion to thus alter their work is an admission by the leaders that the much abused opponents were not so wrong and unreasonable as was represented. The chief trouble now is that so many changes will probably be made that the constitution will be much unlike what the people voted for.

NEEDS ATTENTION.

[New York World.]

A leading Protectionist organ announces that the McKinley bill has cheapened sugar and books by making the one free and reducing the rates on the other 10 per cent. At the same time, according to this queer reasoner, clothing, cutlery and tinware have been also cheapened by increasing the tax on them.

This extraordinary mind seems to have discovered the fact that the duties on the consumers used to pay the tariff tax on sugar, but that the foreigner pays the tax on woolens, cottons, tin and other articles.

The organ's assertions are really facts they show that the tariff does not affect prices at all, and if they do not, then the protective tariff does not protect, but simply punishes some one for daring to trade. Moreover, if prices are not increased then it follows, as a day the night, that he is simply mendacious who argues that the tariff tax enables the manufacturer to pay higher wages and command the home market. The mind that can reason that sugar and taxed clothes needs attention.

THEY WOULD NOT LOOK.

[Washington County Leader.]

Somebody should invent a mirror that will enable a man to see himself as others see him, and every politician would be presented with one of them at public expense. An epidemic of suicides might then be confidently expected.

SWORN JUDGES FOR FAIRS.

["Bourbon" in Farmers Home Journal.]

Nothing a clipping in your paper, from Clark's Horse Review, regarding competent judges at our fairs suggests to my mind the advisability of legislative enactment of a law for the proper government of our fairs. Let our Legislature pass an act providing the oath to be administered by the Secretaries, after being sworn themselves, to all officers, President, Vice, Judges, Timers, Directors, Drivers, etc., to do impartial justice to all contestants for all premiums, whether called premium, purse or stake, and the willful violation of oath to be perjury and punishable accordingly. This would be a substantial reform. The word impartial justice covers the ground. No one with a bias or prejudice could take the oath. This is a feeler, let us have your views on the subject.

In Memoriam.

Mrs. Emeline Rowe, wife of the late W. P. Rowe, died at her home in Centerlown on the 12th inst., at 3 o. m. She was sorely afflicted and confined to her bed nearly three years, and as her condition was hopeless and her suffering great, the messenger of death stole quietly in as she had desired, and thus the suffering of a good woman was ended. She bore her affliction with a christian fortitude nearly ever witnessed. Aunt Emeline, as she was familiarly called, when in health, was always sunshine to her family, and as to enemies, she had none. To know her, was but to love her, and with her entire life is connected memories of the most pleasant character.

To her daughters, is due great praise for the uniform kindness and close attention given her throughout the three weary years of her suffering.

He who supported and comforted the mother, will likewise remember those daughters. At 4 p. m. on the 13th inst., the funeral of W. P. Rowe and wife was ably preached by Rev. Hiram Brown to a large concourse of people, after which the remains were interred in the Warden graveyard. X

Bishop-Neal.

[Owensboro Messenger]

Mr. James Bishop, of Evansville, and Miss Ina Neal, of South Carrollton, were married yesterday evening at six o'clock at the residence of Mr. Jo Montague, on Mulberry street, by Rev. J. H. Boyet. Mr. Bishop is a pilot on the Green river boats and his bride is a charming young lady who has often visited in Owensboro. The marriage was altogether as elopement, though there were parental objections. They will live in Evansville.

Confirmed.

The favorable impression produced on the first appearance of the Cascarets Liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs a few years ago has been more than confirmed by the pleasant experience of all who have used it, and the success of the proprietors and manufacturers, the California Fig Syrup Company.

CROMWELL, KY.

September 14, 1891.—Quite a number of the society people of our town extend their thanks to Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Daniel for the social dance given on last Friday eve.

Master Walter Tilford is able to be on the streets again after several weeks wrestling with typhoid fever.

The elegant steamer Fanny gave an excursion from here to Bowling Green last Wednesday, and if all reports are true, she will give another this week.

For much 'gab' from people who have no grounds for talking, very often makes trouble in a prohibition country.

Miss Ella Smith, of Hardinsburg, arrived in our city last Friday to accept a position as milliner with Wm. Tilford.

Mrs. Hattie Gillstrap, after being confined to her bed for several weeks with typhoid fever, is convalescent.

We all enjoyed ourselves hugely Saturday night at the soiree given by Mr. and Mrs. Sanders. Why can't we have just such entertainments every week?

Miss Effie Kahn is in Bowling Green the guest of her sister, Mrs. Bean Bleich.

Miss Ara Patterson, Mellanry, and Miss Carrie Miller, Prentice, were the guests of friends and relatives here last week.

What will become of us if it keeps on raining and warmer? Seven-eighths of the corn is green as it was six weeks ago. A good light frost will just ripen us.

Miss Emma Pettit, of Owensboro, was the guest of Mrs. N. E. Montague last Friday.

Lon Montague, of Louisville, is in town. M.

CARD!
To the People!

We take pleasure in announcing that our FALL STOCK of FINE CLOTHING is now coming in, and we confidently assert that it is superior in STYLE and CHEAPNESS to anything ever offered in this Green River Country. We have made this line a SPECIALTY for several years, and feel safe in saying that we have brought the Clothing trade down to a "fine point." We beg to invite all our friends and everybody else to call and examine our stock, and promise that the visit shall be both pleasant and profitable.

Also, attention is called to our BUELL SHOES for Gentlemen, and McKNIGHT'S U. S. A. School Shoes for school girls, and the "ELLA," "SUSIE" and "NELLIE BLY" for Ladies.

Come to see us. Look out for our General Opening. Respectfully,

Hocker & Co., Beaver Dam.

How Not to Have a Fair.

[Morganfield Sun.]

One of the principal causes of the unsuccesses of the Henderson fair is the miserly way in which it is advertised. All of this week we have had gentlemen to ask us if we knew which day of the meeting would be the best or if we had a program. We could neither tell them which would be the best day nor show them a program so insufficient has been the advertising done. Why, the company did not even have an ad. in the Henderson papers! The several local notices they received were doubtless written by the editors of the home papers because of their individual interest in the success of the meeting. A fair ought to be advertised as liberally as a circus and when a company refuses to patronize the papers, thereby advertising the fair it ought to be advertised, the papers ought to refuse to notice the fair at all—more than to give their readers what is due them. The day for advertising a fair far and near for a complimentary ticket has already become recorded upon the annels of the newspaper world.

No Change

We would say to the public that in buying out Mr. J. W. Ford, there will be no change made in the prescription department. Mr. T. H. Anli, who has filled your prescriptions for so many years, will still be in charge of this department, and we guarantee accuracy and the finest and purest drugs.

Respectfully,
Williams, Bell & Co.

BORN

Webb.—To the wife of Thomas Webb living just North of Hartford, on the 11th inst., a son.

Pearl Reid Dead.

The hearts of the whole town were saddened by the death of Lillie Pearl Reid, which occurred at her father's home in Rockport, Monday night, August 31st, 1891. After an illness of two weeks, her death resulted of typhoid fever. It seems strange and hard for us to understand why one so young, so generous, so beautiful and fair, should be snatched from us just as she was in the bloom of womanhood. Pearl was a girl whom every one loved and admired and possessed winning ways to all who were acquainted with her. She always greeted one with a pleasant word and a bright smile. She seemed to understand human nature well and knew how to make any one happy who was thrown in her company. The young people of Rockport especially are sorely grieved over this sad affliction; no one will be missed more than Pearl and no one can fill her vacant place.

As a Sunday School worker she could not be excelled by any one in town. She was always ready with willing hands to do what was in her power to promote Sunday School interest, and in her death we feel that our Sunday School has sustained a great loss, but we feel that our loss is her gain. She was a true christian girl and God in his infinite wisdom saw fit to take her from us in her early life. She was just 18 years old her past birthday. Although she has been lingering for two months her death came very unexpectedly. All was done for her that loving hands could do and her death bed was surrounded by a host of friends anxious to do something to prolong her life, but all was in vain and bo-day doubtless she sits at the right hand of God, a bright angel who has gone home to reap her reward for an exemplary life here on earth. Rev. Boone, of McHenry, conducted the funeral services. His remarks were very touching and appropriate. Her remains were conveyed to the last resting place by the following pall bearers:

John Gaines, Frank Casebier, Robert Williams, R. E. Iler, Addie Austin, Clarence Robertson, Joe Smith and D. F. Gibbs. It was her request that her young gentlemen friends be her pall bearers. She was interred in the Rockport cemetery Tuesday evening, September 1st, in the presence of a large concourse of people. Many beautiful flowers were strewn upon her form as the last tribute of respect. The deceased was a very dear friend of the writer and I beg to offer my heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family of the deceased, and may they feel that they have a rich heaven dearer than earthly ties can be.

A Sorro wing Friend.

After 26 Years.

I have sold to Messrs. Williams, Bell & Co., my entire drug interest and take this method of returning my thanks to my many customers for past favors, and bespeak a continuance of same in behalf of the new firm, who are well known to many of you as worthy gentlemen. Those indebted to the old firm will please call at once and settle same.

John K. Sullivan not Murdered.

[South Carrollton cor. Owensboro Inquirer.

Mr. John K. Sullivan, whose sudden death was noticed in the Inquirer on Tuesday last, had his life insured in the Mutual Life of Newark, N. J. Mr. Knox, of Lonieville, the State Representative, paid over the policy, $10,009, on Thursday evening. Mr. Sullivan was also insured in the Knights of Honor for $2,000.

The citizens of this place have come to feel that Mr. Sullivan's death was an accident, smsrinlained by injuries received from being thrown from his horse early in the morning. The generally accepted theory is he had started over to bathe his head and was seized with vertigo, lost his balance and slipped into the river, which is very deep where the accident occurred. Mr. Sullivan could not swim.

That Tired Feeling

Is a dangerous condition due directly to depleted or impure blood. It should not be allowed to continue, as in its debility the system is especially liable to serious attacks of illness. It is remarkable how beneficial Hood's Sarsaparilla is in this corresponding state.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Possessing just those elements which the system needs and readily arises, this medicine purifies the blood, and imparts a feeling of serene strength which is comforting and satisfying. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best remedy for that weakness which prevails at change of season, climate or life.

"I have been convinced that Hood's Sarsaparilla is one of the greatest medicines in the world. I say this for the benefit of all other tired out, run down, hard-working women. Hood's Sarsaparilla is not only excellent as a blood purifier, but for all other female complaints, even if of long standing."
Mrs. M. A. Scarlett, Northville P. O., Mich.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

Opinion of the Same as Entertained and Expressed by One of "The Common Herd."

It is said, "the who laughs last, laughs best." A small but rather exultant majority of some hundred and fifty thousand have recently been doing a great deal of the side-splitting hilarity act, but if not too serious for levity, the hopeless minority is promised some fun for the next five years. The average delegate to the Constitutional Convention is tinctured with a theory as to his unlimited powers, that is strangely and extremely Frenchy. He seems to think that the Convention is a virtual assemblage of the whole people, men, women and children, on a vast plain, in a convolution, and that what of the people remains behind, is only the vulgar, ignorant, incompetent rest of the "common herd," and that all sovereignty has luckily fallen into the hands of a few wonderfully wise, able and patriotic selections.

Nothing has more fully demonstrated the justice of this well-founded charge than the work of the "Revisory Committee," who have even already proposed several substantial changes in an unalterable organic law. The fact that they do the masses of Kentucky the honor, by way of apology, to propose to make the Railroad Commissioner elective instead of commencing upon the ignorance and credulity of the people by making him appointive by the Governor, as the new instrument does, sounds to me more like bedrock after public scrutiny, than the wail of repentance. If it is not demagogery, then it is a thrust at Governor Brown, who has not yet shed the aroma of the "pennyrile." No, no, don't make it a requisite
